

'Change Still Balks at Sale Of Ryan Seat

Board of Governors Says Investigation of Stutz Corner Is Not Finished Is Reason for Refusal

More Sensations to Come

Broker Replies by Repeating Demand, but Insists He Welcomes Inquiry

The developments in the Stutz Motor corner leading up to the request of Allan A. Ryan that his seat on the New York Stock Exchange be sold and the subsequent failure of the Exchange authorities to comply with Mr. Ryan's wish were set forth yesterday in a mass of correspondence between Stanchfield & Levy, Mr. Ryan's attorneys, and E. V. D. Cox, secretary of the Stock Exchange. The information divulged was considered as a protracted session of the governing committee, whose dealings with the head of the Stutz Motor Company are expected to furnish more sensational developments.

It is believed that these developments will be made public when the court action instituted by Mr. Ryan to force the Stock Exchange to sell his seat is carried further.

Inquiry Not Completed

The Stock Exchange stated, in its correspondence with Mr. Ryan's attorneys, that his seat had not been sold on the Exchange because the investigation with regard to transactions in Stutz Motor shares prior to their being transferred to the curb market had not been completed. The Exchange authorities further charged that their inquiry has been retarded by the refusal of Allan A. Ryan & Co. to comply with the request of the Business Conduct Committee for information relating to the transactions of the firm in Stutz Motor stock, "under the pretext that the subsequent request of Mr. Allan A. Ryan to have his membership transferred constituted a resignation from the Exchange and relieved him from the performance of his obligations as a member."

"The constitution of the exchange," continued the letter, "provides that a member may transfer his membership with the consent of two-thirds of the committee on admissions and that his seat may be sold only after the committee on admission, and that his death, insolvency or expulsion. The constitution recognizes no other mode in which a membership in the exchange may be terminated."

Mr. Ryan, in a statement issued during the day, declared that he would welcome a full investigation of the Stutz and other related matters. He declared that he had appeared on numerous occasions before the business conduct committee of the exchange and had supplied it with the full information requested. He charged that the committee was unable to obtain from the committee any cooperation in developing the truth of the situation.

Much investigation as the committee has undertaken to make has long since been completed," added Mr. Ryan. "The exchange does not desire the full and public investigation which I have demanded, and which ultimately is expected to have. While they are using the alleged pendency of their so-called investigation as an excuse for failure to sell my seat, in fact they will never voluntarily institute a full and public investigation, which is precisely what they fear."

Demands Sale of Seat

"I demand that the Stock Exchange accept my resignation and sell my seat, and I deny the right of the governors to refuse to take such action on the ground that an investigation is pending. However, I repeat that I shall be glad to participate in any inquiry in which I am assured that the elementary rules of common justice and fair play will be observed."

"This whole controversy arises from my insistence that no 'packed jury' be permitted to sit in this or any other case, and which ultimately is expected to have. While they are using the alleged pendency of their so-called investigation as an excuse for failure to sell my seat, in fact they will never voluntarily institute a full and public investigation, which is precisely what they fear."

On the latter issue my contention has been fully established, as it will be, also, on the former."

Chamorro's Funds Attached

Nicaraguan President Is Sued Here for $25,000

An attachment against the New York funds of General Emiliano Chamorro, President of Nicaragua and former Nicaraguan Minister at Washington, was served yesterday by Sheriff Knott on G. Amsick & Co., commercial bankers and exporters, of 90 Wall Street.

The attachment, signed by Justice Tierney, was in an action brought against President Chamorro by Henry Kirchmann Jr. for $25,000 for alleged breach of contract. The defendant being a non-resident, the attachment was procured to tie up any funds he has here so that if a judgment is rendered there will be something tangible to levy on.

City's Census Figures Will Be Rechecked

Director Says Data Will Be Investigated Where It Is Shown Enumerator Failed to List All Persons

Bronx Makes Complaint

Report of 732,016 Population Declared Incorrect by Trade Board Official

From The Tribune's Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, June 9.—A rechecking of the New York census figures was promised to-day by Sam L. Rogers, Director of the Census, in response to complaints from the Bronx Board of Trade that a complete enumeration of that borough was not taken.

Maintaining that the census figures announced for the borough and New York metropolitan district proper were correct, Director Rogers informed Charles E. Reid, executive secretary of the Bronx board, that an investigation would be authorized where evidence was presented of failure of enumerators to list every person.

Census officials to-day declared the rechecking showed that the Hotel Majestic had listed 225 persons on January 1, whereas complaint said only six persons were enumerated there. At the Hotel Theresa, where the charge was made that the census enumerators returned a blank report, 258 were found recorded.

In response to the complaint of Secretary Reid that the report of 732,016 population for the city was incorrect, Director Rogers to-day sent him a letter which said:

Director Explains Position

"I have no doubt that there are some people in New York City who will claim that they were not enumerated, and it would be surprising if a few had not been missed by the enumerators. It, however, is the experience of the bureau that the majority of the people who claim that they were not enumerated actually had been counted by the enumerators, the information having been obtained from some member of their family."

"For example, not long ago a member of Congress called at the office and stated that he and his family had not been enumerated. Upon examining the enumerators' return it was found that a correct enumeration had been made of the Congressman and of each member of his family. The Mayor of an important city in the Federal Government had been enumerated because he had ordered the enumerator out of his office. The enumerator, however, went to his residence and obtained the information from his wife without the Mayor's knowledge."

"Your statement that there were many who declined to give their names to census takers is not based upon fact. The census enumerator secured the information when he went to an individual, and if that individual declined to give his name, the enumerator accompanied the enumerator and insisted upon answers being given to the census inquiries."

Promises an Investigation

"Notwithstanding the precautions that have been taken, and notwithstanding my firm conviction that there has been a correct enumeration of the population of the city, nevertheless, if you or any other person interested will furnish me with the means and addresses of persons who claim they were not enumerated, a careful comparison will be made of the return, and if it is found that their names do not appear upon the schedules of the enumerators such persons will be canvassed for the purpose of ascertaining whether, as a matter of fact, they were making their usual place of abode on January 1 at the addresses given."

"In furnishing the names and addresses of such individuals care must be taken to give not only the present addresses but the addresses on January 1, 1920. A great many people in New York City have moved since January 1, and naturally they would not have been enumerated in the place where they are now residing."

"I recognize that this is a serious matter, and it is my desire to do everything possible to give the people a correct enumeration but to do so without the work that it will have the confidence of your board of trade and of all other persons who are interested in the prosperity of your city."

Police May Check Figures on Census

Mayor Hylan appointed a committee yesterday to confer with Dr. Frank J. Monaghan, acting Health Commissioner as chairman, for the purpose of making a study of the census figures for New York City. The other members of the committee are the Police Commissioner, Tenement House Commissioner, President of the Board of Education, Fire Commissioner and the Commissioner of Public Welfare.

At the end of the meeting, Dr. Monaghan announced that the committee would hold its first meeting to-day.

In a statement issued by the National Civil Service Reform League yesterday the contention was made that the census was taken by political appointees and the business of the census was work. The responsibility for the inaccurate enumeration rests squarely upon the shoulders of Congress, the league said, in failing to place the census employees under civil service.

Predict Inaccurate Count

"The report of the census enumerators of New York City to the effect that the population of the city is a little over five and one-half millions has caused an avalanche of criticism from the business and reform circles. The league statement declared, 'The situation is evidence of the soundness of the prediction made by the National Civil Service Reform League in 1918 and early in 1919, when the census bill was being introduced in the legislative mill in Washington that unless all appointments were made out in accordance with the civil service law the census would be inaccurately made. An unsuccessful attempt was made in the Senate to include the four hundred supervisors under the provisions of the merit system. The four hundred supervisors were charged with the selection of some 85,000 enumerators.'

"The league in its protest to Congress pointed out the disastrous experience of 1890 and 1900, when the census was taken by political appointees and persons who were totally untrained for the work, and warned the members of Congress that the same has been done in New York City. The responsibility for the inaccurate enumeration rests squarely upon the shoulders of Congress and the Director of the Census."

Federal Figures Called Correct

Stewart Browne, president of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, replying yesterday to those who claim that the city's population is 5,600,000, and of the city over 6,000,000, gave ten reasons for his belief.

Walter Laidlaw, secretary of the New York City 1920 census committee of the New York Federation of Churches, said yesterday that "New York will be ultimately obliged to accept the figures of the Federal census of 1920 as substantially correct."

Mr. Laidlaw said the acid test for the census of New York is the percentage of the nation's population credited to New York City. While nobody knows the official population of the United States as of January 1, 1920, Mr. Laidlaw said it would probably be about 108,000,000, and on this basis the percentage credited to New York, compared with other census years, would make the Federal census figures about right.

Ernest P. Goodrich, formerly director of the state military census, also contended that the Federal figures giving the city 6,621,161 population were correct. Mr. Goodrich produced estimates in support of his statement. He based these estimates on the military census, which was taken with great care, he said. The number who registered under the military census, which was completed in July, 1919, were 3,277,360, and a close estimate at that time gave the population of the city as 5,462,377.

Former Maid Threatens Life of Mrs. Villard

Negro Woman Sent to Bellevue for Observation on Complaint of Widow

Carolyn Smith, forty, a negro, of 240 West Sixty-fourth Street, was sent to Bellevue Hospital for observation by Magistrate George W. Simpson in West Side Court, yesterday, on complaint of Mrs. Fannie Garrison Villard, widow of Henry Villard, and mother of Oswald Garrison Villard, publisher of a journal.

Mrs. Villard declared that the woman, formerly employed by her as a maid, wrote her threatening letters, about forty pages long, advising her: "Beware, I am going to have you electrocuted and some of your family."

"What do you want to electrocute that woman for?" asked Magistrate Simpson, the prisoner. "That woman is the daughter of William Lloyd Garrison, who has come down in history as one of the best friends your race ever had."

"I never heard of that man," said the woman, "and I am sure going to electrocute her when I can."

Leprosy Cure Believed Discovered in Hawaii

Forty-eight Cases Paroled Last October After Treatment Still Free of Disease

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

WASHINGTON, June 9.—A cure for leprosy, sought through the ages since long before the cleansing of Naaman by dipping seven times in the Jordan, apparently has been found at last.

Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming announced to-day that officers in the United States Public Health Service at the leper colony in the Hawaiian Islands had experimented for a year with forty-eight cases, treating them regularly up to last October, when they were paroled. Up to the present all of the patients have remained free from the disease.

The treatment is based on favorable results obtained by the application of chaulmoogra oil, an extract from the leaves of Hydnocarpus kurat, an East Indian plum tree. The new compound is known as the ethyl ester of chaulmoogra oil.

The treatments at present are being carried out at the leprosy investigating station at Kalihi, Hawaii, under the direction of Dr. J. T. McDonald, head of the station. It is expected that facilities will soon be provided for treatment at the leper colony at Molokai.

Dr. Cumming's announcement points out that the apparent cure have been verified only by officials of the Public Health Service, but the official board, an independent government body, which passes on every case before release.

F. Hendricks, 'Beloved Boss,' Is Dead at 86

Was Leader of Republican Organization in Central New York for 35 Years; Once Collector of Port

Was Ill for Several Weeks

In Senate and Assembly; Given Appointments by Roosevelt and Harrison

SYRACUSE, June 9.—Francis Hendricks, for nearly thirty-five years leader of the Republican organization in Central New York, for a number of years Onondaga's representative in the New York State Senate and Collector of the Port of New York under President Harrison from 1891 to 1893, died this morning after an illness of several weeks. He was eighty-six years old.

Mr. Hendricks, familiarly known as the "Beloved Boss" in Syracuse, was born in Kingston and was educated at Albany Academy. After a business apprenticeship as a clerk in Rochester for eleven years, he removed to Syracuse, where his first business venture was a photographic supply house, in which he made a fortune.

Elected Mayor in 1880

After serving two terms as Fire Commissioner of Syracuse, he was elected Mayor of the city in 1880. He was reelected in 1884. In 1884 he was elected to the State Assembly, where for two terms he gave particular attention to the charitable institutions of the state and to the Adirondack Park. At the end of his second term he was promoted to the State Senate, where he served three terms. In the Senate he served as chairman of the committee on Cities, and chairman of the committee which investigated Tammany methods of government and the legislation which freed the city from the Aqueeduct Commission.

In September, 1891, President Harrison appointed Mr. Hendricks Collector of Customs for the Port of New York, which office he filled until August, 1893.

In January, 1900 Theodore Roosevelt, then Governor appointed Mr. Hendricks to be State Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and the nomination was unanimously confirmed by the Senate. He remained in office until February, 1906.

President of Trust Company

Mr. Hendricks was president of the Trust and Deposit Company of Onondaga and president of the board of directors of Syracuse University. In order to carry out the duties of the golden jubilee of the university he did not go to the Republican National Convention at Chicago. This was the first time since 1860 that he had not attended for more than forty years.

Mr. Hendricks was seriously injured in an automobile accident in June, 1919. His scalp was cut and his hip badly wrenched, but, despite his age, he made a speedy and complete recovery.

Two Bank Clerks Held in Bail on Forgery Charge

Declared to Have Admitted Dividing $2,000 of Atlantic National's Money Between Them

James E. Hamer, twenty-two, and William Feldman, twenty-two, bank clerks, of 87 St. Mark's Place, Brooklyn, were arraigned yesterday in Tombs Court, charged with stealing $2,000 from the Atlantic National Bank. They were held in $2,000 bail each by Magistrate Thomas J. Nolan for examination Friday.

The clerks acknowledged in writing that they divided the money between them, according to Thomas E. Curran, auditor of the bank.

The money was taken about February 18 of this year, while Hamer was in the employ of the institution. It was charged that he stole a check, destroyed the original check and drew another which was deposited in the Atlantic National Bank. The check was drawn on the Atlantic National Bank, and the money was divided between the two clerks. The Atlantic National Bank did not discover the loss until its books were audited recently.

Hamer and Feldman were arrested Tuesday afternoon by detectives at the Atlantic National Bank, where, according to the detectives, the two clerks had come to deposit another check for $3,000, which, it is alleged, also was forged.
